

María J. Alonso, Ph.D. -Bioskech

María José Alonso is Professor of Pharmaceutical Technology at the University of Santiago de Compostela, Spain.

Pioneer the field of nanomedicine in Spain

Coordination and participation in international consortia financed by the WHO, the Gates Foundation, the NIH and the European Commission.

Author of more than 300 scientific contributions with H factor 98.

Inventor of 22 patent families, licensed to industry and promoter of 3 start-up ventures.

TOP TEN in Pharmacology (Times Higher Education international ranking, 2010).

President of the Release Society (CRS) in 2018-19.

Editor-in-Chief of the Drug Delivery and Translational Research journal (2019-)

38 awards, among them the “Jaume I Award”, and the National Sciences Award ‘Juan de la Cierva.

A member of 5 Academies, among them the Royal Academy of Pharmacy of Spain, the Royal Academy of Medicine of Belgium and a member of the US National Academy of Medicine (NAM).